This paper gives the brief functionality of Dupli checker plagiarism software.

Key words: Academic Integrity, Copyright, Plagiarism, Dupli checker plagiarism tool.

1. INTRODUCTION

Now a day, Plagiarism in academic environment has the challenges of scientific honesty. Technological advancement, such as internet and email, has however substantially increased the sources available for plagiarizing, and significantly reduced the time and effort required to incorporate these sources into an essay or report. Plagiarism is an act of taking someone else's ideas and passing them off as owns. Plagiarism has now become an integral part of digital lives as technology, with the billions of information it gives us access to, led to the exacerbation of this phenomenon. Plagiarism is the presentation of the work of another as owns original work, is not a new phenomenon. Plagiarism has always been a difficulty in publishing but the problem has aggravated with the unauthorized re-use of material found on the Internet. It can be intentional or non-intentional. Different kinds of academic frauds are increased as technology increases. The most prominent and most commonly adopted of these is the act of plagiarism which is done in most of the academic assignments, theses and even research papers. [16]

Plagiarism is not the same as copyright violation. While both the terms may apply to a particular act, they are different terms, false claims of authorship may subject to plagiarism regardless of whether the material is protected by copyright or not. It is considered an ethical offense and can be harmful to one's academic reputation and honesty. In short Plagiarism is an ethical construct and copyright violation is a legal one. [19]

1.1 DEFINITION

- Wikipedia quotes from Random House Compact Unabridged Dictionary, 1995 that: Plagiarism is the "Use or close imitation of the language and thoughts of another author and the representation of them as one's own original work."

- The World Association of Medical Editors (WAME) defines "Plagiarism as the use of other's published and unpublished ideas or words (or other intellectual property) without attribution or permission, and presenting them as new and original rather than derived from an existing source.

To put it simply, this crime refers to stealing someone else's work or ideas, and passing it off as one's own. For a researcher, this form of scientific misconduct represents fraud of the worst order."

1.2 CONSEQUENCES OF PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism is a serious offense:

- Result in work being destroyed
- Result in expulsion from Academic Institution
- Result in legal action.
- Considered as a lack of academic integrity, academic dishonesty, academic fraud, intellectual theft, and cheating
- Results in a failing grade in an assignment
- Damages the reputation of students
- Creates the impression of unfairness and not a level playing field for all students
- Give the impression that students don't care about themselves nor the university
- Give professors the impression that students are lazy and not using their critical thinking skills
- Prevent students from the chance to interpret other people's ideas or develop new ones.

1.3 CAUSES OF PLAGIARISM

- Fear of failure or lack of confidence in their own writing
- Poor time management
- Course, assignment, conversion of academic documentation not important
- For better grading
- Aware of consequences of cheating
- Easy access of articles, books by using internet
- Lack of research, writing and documentation skill
- Don't know the effective use of citation

- Difficulties in understanding the western concept, ideas and written expressions.

2. TYPES OF PLAGIARISM

Different types of Plagiarism are as follows

- Copy & paste plagiarism
- Word Switch Plagiarism
- Ghost Writer
- Self-plagiarism
- Paraphrasing
- Manipulated Plagiarism
- Ideal Plagiarism
- Authors-Fight Plagiarism
- Translated Plagiarism
- Whole work Plagiarism
- Grammatical and Structural Plagiarism
- Juice Plagiarism

Plagiarism can mainly classified into two types

- Intentional plagiarism: Intentional plagiarism occurs when the person accused of unoriginal content has done it with all his conscience. Ignorant novice bloggers, cheap freelance writers, article spinners and students come under this category and tend to copy someone else’s writing in order to save time and efforts. Effective plagiarism checkers tools are a must to check this type of content scrapers.

- Unintentional plagiarism: Unawareness about citations value and / or forgetting citations are examples for this type. The author’s goal is not to break the intellectual properties law and the mistake in not to intentional. Unintentional plagiarism occurs when you are not aware of copying someone else’s content, but writing has traces of content that is already published elsewhere. Quoting someone without giving due credits also comes in this category. [18-19]

3. PLAGIARISM DETECTION TOOLS/SOFTWARE

Plagiaristic trends in academic societies lead scientists to design plagiarism detection tools and software. There are two ways of detecting plagiarism one being the manual method and the other, the use of anti-plagiarism software. The manual method is very tedious and somewhat time consuming and the use of anti-plagiarism software is more effective and up to date to detect copied and unoriginal content easily.

Anti-plagiarism software are available commercially as well as an open source. Some of them are listed below in Table 1.

Academic integrity comprise of honest, trust, respect, fairness and responsibility. Hence there are many challenges to the researcher to maintain the academic integrity and to avoid violation of copyright act. The content validation plays the vital role in research article to ensure the originality of the research. [19]

In this technological era, a plagiarism is essential for protecting original work. This plagiarism benefits for teachers, students, website owners and anyone else interested in protecting their writing. The written material can be checked online by using plagiarism software to ensure the texts are unique. Many college and university students face extreme penalties for plagiarism such as failing an assignment, loss of privileges, academic probation or even expulsion. For avoiding the punishment or imprisonment, student should detect plagiarism that means to search the grammar mistakes before the submission of paper.

6. CONCLUSION

In the advancement of technology and the digital era, the plagiarism software is the useful tool for ensuring the originality and to provide the academic integrity. Today's need is to avoid the violation of copyright act and to make the awareness among the students and academician about the original and authentic research work. It is the need of educational institute to recognize the plagiarism using the holistic and multi-stake holder approach to achieve the academic integrity.
